

NEN News Release:

National Entertainment Network's Purchase of Coinstar's Vending Division Means a Renewed Focus on Entertainment

Louisville, CO September 10, 2009 (Business Wire): National Entertainment Network (NEN) announced today the purchase of Coinstar Entertainment Services, Inc., a subsidiary of Coinstar, Inc.

Headquartered in Louisville, Colorado, NEN's principals possess a depth of vending experience, which includes ownership in other vending-related companies. NEN now takes control of the industry's most extensive range of entertainment vending products and platforms, operated at leading mass merchants, supermarkets, restaurants and other high-traffic locations.

"We are thrilled to bring together the collective expertise necessary to solidify entertainment vending across all our customer channels," said Kevin Wall, NEN's President and Chief Executive. "The successful operation of the nation's largest direct route of skill cranes, bulk racks, kiddie rides and video games requires total focus. As such, NEN's background and resources, now combined with the nation's largest entertainment operator, should lead to a bright future for entertainment vending," he said.

About National Entertainment Network, Inc.

NEN is headquartered in Louisville, Colorado, and its principals include Kevin Wall (President, CEO), Rich Gerhardt (General Counsel) and Bill Lewis (Principal). For more information, contact Deb Crowley (303) 444-2559, #200, or deb.crowley@nen-inc.com.